

If You Do

When I think about this heart
When I think about this heart
I get troubled in the morning
I don't know where I should start
There's so much I don't remember
When I think about this heart

When I think about this world
Spinning silently in space
Like a pearl amongst the rubble
Like a damsel in distress
Waiting for some ancient lover
To recall her place of rest

As you wander through this world
Take some time to find you a girl
And if you do it may turn out like this
A solitary kiss
For trouble in this world
A moment just for you
If you do

When I think about this night
When I think about this day
Only time can tell the story
There's so little I can do
When it comes to passing moments
I'm a prisoner like you

When I think about this fence
That I built with my own hands
Keeping in the things I treasure
Keeping out the deafening roar
Thinking I could be protected
From the knocking at my door

As you wander through this world
Take some time to find you a girl
And if you do it may turn out like this
A solitary kiss
For trouble in this world
A moment just for you
If you do

When I think about those stars
Many light years out from ours
I get dizzy, disconnected
I can't comprehend that part
Of a universal struggle
That includes this little heart

When I think about this heart
When I think about this heart
I get troubled in the morning
I don't know where I should start
There's so much I don't remember
When I think about this heart

As you wander through this world
Take some time to find you a girl
And if you do it may turn out like this
A solitary kiss
For trouble in this world
A moment just for you
If you do
