

Valley So Wide

Little white churches
All painted up with pride
Here in this valley so deep
Here in this valley so wide

Snow in the springtime
Covers the countryside
Here in this valley so deep
Here in this valley so wide

This ain't New York
This ain't L.A.
I don't need to get away
To another place
To another place
To another place
To another place

Said you'd be coming home
You must have missed your flight
Or did you change your mind
Something just ain't right
You're missing the hometown queen
And her victory ride
Here in this valley so deep
Here in this valley so wide

The apple trees
Are in bloom
With winter
Still in the moon
The parade passes
And the bagpipes
Squeeze out tunes

Down at the local bar
Well, they're all tuned up
Outside the pick-up trucks
Are kicking up some dust
I'll spend all my money, honey
On these slot machines
It never pays to dream
It never pays to dream

This ain't New York
This ain't L.A.
I don't need to get away

Worked in the Rockies
Came home
I couldn't sleep
Away from this valley so wide
Away from this valley so deep
You can lay me down
My simple soul to keep

The apple trees
With winter
Squeeze out tunes

This ain't New York
This ain't L.A.
To another place
To another place
To another place
